“ She was one of my mom's numerous siblings. She was a very kind but intimidating aunt. She took no gruff from anyone & one of the last true Appalachian women, like we will never see again. She could cook food that is rare to find, along with her sisters. When all sisters where in the kitchen, they would always argue but could fix a breakfast for the entire family, that would last you until suppertime. She & her sisters had a specialty, missing in modern America & will be missed, greatly. Rest in Peace Aunt Vivian. Say hello to your other sisters, brother, father, mom & husband. Your journey has ended but please know, you were & will be always loved & cherished.
